QUIBO Brings “See the BESS Difference” to The Kyiv Technical Fair
Six Operational BESS Units, Proven Projects and a New Local Presence in Ukraine
Kyiv, Ukraine — October 13, 2026
QUIBO, an intelligent energy infrastructure company, will present its commercial and industrial energy storage capabilities at The Kyiv Technical Fair at the International Exhibition Center. Under the theme “See the BESS Difference,” QUIBO will bring Six 125kW/254kWh liquid-cooled battery energy storage systems to the exhibition, enabling visitors to view the systems in operation and discuss their application in real project environments.

Designed for resilient and flexible energy use
As Ukraine strengthens its energy resilience, dependable energy storage is becoming increasingly important for maintaining operations, integrating renewables, managing peak demand and optimizing grid capacity for commercial and industrial users.
QUIBO’s 254kWh liquid-cooled energy storage system is built around CATL long-cycle-life battery technology. It combines PPB nuclear-grade safety technology with a cycle life up to 12,000 cycles, supporting reliable and long-term operation. Its modular architecture supports expansion from individual commercial installations to multi-megawatt-hour projects, while on-grid and off-grid configurations allow the system to serve industrial facilities, commercial buildings, renewable-energy projects, infrastructure sites and other locations requiring flexible and dependable power support.

From product specifications to visible performance
For visitors evaluating energy storage investments, the exhibition provides an opportunity to inspect operating behavior of real equipment at the booth. QUIBO’s technical and commercial teams will be available to discuss system configuration, deployment requirements and how BESS can be matched to different load profiles and operating scenarios.

The booth will also feature seven project case studies demonstrating how QUIBO solutions have been deployed across different markets and sceneries. These include a utility-scale energy storage project in Ukraine with 15MWh of storage capacity, alongside European references covering commercial and industrial storage, renewable-energy integration, PV-BESS-EV charging and mobile power applications.

Building a long-term presence in Ukraine
Alongside its participation at The Kyiv Technical Fair, QUIBO has established a representative office in Ukraine. It will serve as a local point of contact for project consultation, system configuration and delivery coordination, with a focus on C&I energy storage and renewable-energy integration projects.

LLC NVF INIT company presents a high-voltage energy storage system under the SVIT brand — an innovative solution based on $LiFePO_4$ batteries to ensure energy autonomy of residential and commercial facilities.

The product is suitable for both domestic solutions (5 kW) and industrial systems up to 30 kW and more, which can operate in gridded, autonomous or hybrid mode.

Own production will ensure a complete cycle of folding, testing and quality control.

The development of systems is based on the company's 30-year expertise in the field of critical energy, which is important for nuclear power plants.

The solutions presented are designed to meet high standards of safety, reliability and energy efficiency.

Due to their modularity and wide scalability, SVIT systems have already proven their effectiveness in real projects — from the backup life of HOA to supporting manufacturing enterprises.

Our goal is to introduce reliable, competitive systems using Ukrainian engineering to the Euro.

SEE THE BESS DIFFERENCE

Seeing is Believing, Powering the Future: QUIBO Energy's 254kWh C&I BESS is Fully Operational Across Ukraine!

In the face of Ukraine's current energy challenges and the urgent need for commercial and industrial reconstruction, time is the ultimate currency. At QUIBO Energy, we understand that for high-energy-consuming industrial and commercial clients, true security doesn't just come from top-tier technical specifications on paper—it comes from rapid, localized delivery and 24/7 stable operation on the ground.

Today, we are incredibly proud to announce to our partners and clients: QUIBO Energy's flagship 254kWh Commercial & Industrial Liquid Cooling Energy Storage System (SNES125-254AL-EN) has been successfully deployed in Kyiv and multiple regions across Ukraine! These systems are currently running at peak performance, providing continuous, safe, and clean power to local businesses.
